TENT CITY AND SAN DIEGO

Southern California Editors Abroad—
How Things Look in the Bay City

Periodically, and sometimes oftener, the Southern California editors drop for a few days the heavy responsibility of looking after the morals and reporting the doings of their respective constituents and strike out for new fields from which to replenish their failing stock of alleged ideas. They have just returned from a three days' outing at Coronado Tent City, San Diego and vicinity. The Santa Fe Railway Company kindly furnished them a special train Friday morning and carried the party, consisting almost exclusively of editors and their wives, through to San Diego with all the comforts and conveniences which that road is noted for furnishing to its patrons. Indeed, they did more—they furnished a special representative of the road in the person of Mr. H. H. Moore, who "personally conducted" the party in a manner that was unanimously agreed to be just right, not only seeing to it that passengers were supplied with all reasonable comforts, but constituting himself an entertainment committee of one, which, added to the efforts of President Jones and others of the editorial party, made an immense aggregation. The vocal efforts of the quartet, of which the two gentlemen named constituted a half, were highly appreciated—the songs were new and original, in the most part mixed in with a few of the old reliable—but they were all tuneful and harmless.

Tent City is an institution worth seeing and a delightful place for spending a vacation, if one appreciates the charm of ocean and smooth salt water lagoons with all the accessories of a first-class seaside resort. There are something like twelve hundred tents, provided with all the comforts of home, where one can enjoy every possible inducement to loaf and enjoy his ease if he should happen to be so constituted, or he can lead the more strenuous life that some in their pursuit for pleasure desire. The sanitary and police arrangements are perfect, and as a camping place it is unexcelled.

On Friday evening there was a dance at the new $30,000 pavilion, a splendid palace of pleasure in the Mission style, just having the finishing touches put on it. A band of 25 pieces furnished excellent music every afternoon and evening in the commodious pavilion, capable of seating a thousand people.

The banquet given to the party Saturday evening by the San Diego Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Coronado was a delightfully informal affair. Col. D. C. Collier was there as "Chief Booster." Mr. George Burnham of the Chamber of Commerce acted as toastmaster, filling the place in a manner that left nothing to be desired, and Mayor Conrad delivered the address of welcome overflowing with the spirit of hospitality. The speakers were careful to make their position known in reference to the proposed fair which San Diego will hold in 1915 to celebrate the conclusion of the Panama Canal. This exposition, they wish to have under stood, is not to be a "World's Fair," and Congress will not be asked to give any appropriation to aid it, but will be requested to recognize it and give it the prestige of Government backing in other ways. The particular scope of the exhibition includes the Pacific Coast, the near-by States and Territories and the Latin-American countries. It is proposed to erect the exposition buildings on the city's 1400-acre park, and a bond issue of about five million dollars will be voted for the joint purpose of preparing for the event and to expend upon the improvement of the harbor—which, by the way, is quite another matter, and will be referred to later. The San Diego committee some weeks ago had a meeting with a committee from San Francisco and an agreement was reached between the representatives of the two cities by which each will aid the other in the project dear to the heart of each. The result will be two expositions at about the same time, but the promoters of each claim that they will not conflict.

The speech of Col. Collier was a candid and forcible one, in which he appealed for harmony and emphasized the necessity for all of Southern California standing together. He admitted frankly that for many years San Diego did not exhibit a due consideration for other places, and was not altogether free from a narrowness which retards progress—but this spirit no longer prevails, and the people are now animated by a broader feeling of loyalty to all of Southern California, realizing that one portion cannot succeed in its ambitions toward growth and greatness without conferring a measure of benefit upon every other community in this great empire of limitless possibilities. The limitations of space will not permit the reporting of the many good things said at the banquet, although many of them would be of general interest. Among the visitors speaking were President C. E. Jones, John S. McDevitt, O. B. Tait and C. J. McDevitt, the latter giving some interesting reminiscences of the first meeting of the editorial association at Coronado twenty-one years ago.

On Sunday morning the members of the party were taken in automobiles for a ride around the bay to Point Loma and through the city of San Diego. Between San Diego and Point Loma is a good, broad highway, measuring, with its numerous turns around the loop made in returning, about fifteen miles. This constitutes what as high an authority as Admiral Evans is quoted as declaring to be "the finest road in the world." Possibly this too high praise; as to that the writer cannot offer an expert opinion, but it is very doubtful whether it can be matched anywhere on the Pacific Coast. It is the delight of auto drivers. The roadbed consists entirely of puddled clay, and for firmness and smoothness it makes an oiled road look like the traditional "thirty cents." An object lesson as to this was afforded to the visitors during the ride. A portion of the route followed was over asphalted streets, and although they appeared to the eye to be perfectly smooth, they prove, very uneven as compared to the clay surface. The clay used is found in abundance in the vicinity. The road showed no signs of recent sprinkling and yet it was practically dustless. It presents an irresistible temptation to the law-breaker as far as speed regulations are concerned; as to that the editors can testify. On this ride a new seaside resort along the shore of "False Bay," known as Ocean Beach, was passed, the large number of new houses and other recent work indicating that it will soon be a place of considerable importance, having many natural advantages as a pleasure resort.

The New San Diego.

After visiting Point Loma and riding through the grounds of Mrs. Tingley's famous Raja Yoga school, the editors were "shown San Diego" from its various viewpoints. The writer has never before been inclined to enthuse over the city notwithstanding its natural advantages, but since seeing it last, three years ago, he notes great improvements, particularly in the building line, which seem to indicate that after many years of waiting, San Diego is now coming to its own. In that time several additions have been made to the developed city in the shape of new subdivisions upon which many houses have been erected and in which at present a great deal of work is being done in the way of home building. These additions seem to indicate the development of a water supply which the visitor to the city has always been told was "ample," but the results of which, until recently, have not been in evidence. It is now the fact of the existence of this supply of that element most necessary to the upbuilding of a city, is patent to the observer, not only in the number of homes being erected on the surrounding hills, but in the increased number of attractive, well-kept lawns in front of and surrounding beautiful homes. But the greatest, or at least the most noticeable development of the city, where new business structures are seen in every direction either recently completed or in course of construction. The splendid U. S. Grant Hotel is, of course, the most noticeable of these. It is practically completed and will be formally opened to the public on the 15th of October. It is ten stories in height, with splendid grounds from which a fine view of the bay and the surrounding country can be seen. The visitors were shown the structure by the management and can well believe after a cursory inspection that it, as claimed, "the finest hotel in the West."

There are three large projects which San Diego is planning for at present which promise great things. The first is the exposition to be held in 1915 to celebrate the completion of the Panama Canal, and to the success of which the enterprising boosters of the city are bending all their energies. Another is the improvement of the harbor. It is proposed to secure from the State of California, if possible, a cession of about 1500 acres of land covered by the shallow waters of the bay, cut this off from the rest of the bay by a semi-circular breakwater, dredging out the shallow portion of the harbor, filling in back over the breakwater so as to reclaim the now waste acreage, giving the city a valuable frontage and greatly enlarging the harbor accommodations of the already large anchorage ground. The other project, which is already under way and being pushed rapidly, is the Spreckels railroad to Yuma. This road is already completed to the border near Tia Juana. It will run a considerable distance through Mexico, coming up into California farther east and running through the rich Imperial Valley to Yuma. There is no doubt but that this road when completed will bring to San Diego a large portion of the trade of the Imperial country, which in itself will be an item of immense importance to the city on the bay. It is claimed that this route to Chicago and the East from the Pacific is 300 miles shorter than that followed by any other road, and, further, that the grade of the new road is at its greatest incline only one and four-tenths per cent, and that for only a few miles, while the general average grade is less than one per cent.

The city claims a population now of 30,000, an increase from 17,000 as given by the census of 1900. San Diego county has voted a bond issue to provide for the construction of over 400 miles of good roads. The corporate limits extend about twelve miles along the water front, which indicates that the city has a large territory for assessment purposes. The churches, schools and other public institutions of San Diego speak more plainly than can be told in words of the high intellectual and moral tone of the community. Certainly the visiting editors are indebted to the public-spirited citizens of the city for many courtesies extended and these were expressed in resolutions adopted at the banquet of Saturday night, in which also the Santa Fe railroad was not forgotten. Speaking of this banquet, mention may here be made of two of the speeches which were not alluded to above. One was by Mr. H. H. Moore, the representative of the railroad company, in which he made a plea for fair treatment of railroads, something which his auditors agreed with him in the belief that it is not always accorded. The other speech that merits mention was that of Dr. Adams, which was far out of the ordinary style of expression on similar occasions. The worthy doctor asserted that it was impossible for newspaper men to tell the truth, an assertion based upon the idea that the policy of the newspaper is dictated by the business office. This called forth a response from Mr. John McGroarty, who handled the matter very successfully from the newspaper man's point of view. During Sunday afternoon a train was put at the service of the editors to take them to Tia Juana, and it is rumored that a special "bull fight" was served up for their delectation, but the writer having once witnessed a sample of this alleged "sport," was not among those present. At 6:30 p. m. the whole party boarded the train for Los Angeles well pleased with the world in general and Southern California in particular.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES GLENDALE UNION HIGH SCHOOL

The auditorium of the high school was crowded Thursday evening last week on the occasion of the commencement exercises. The stage was banked deep with bouquets, which at the close of the program were distributed to the graduates, some of whom were so lavishly served that they could not carry off all of their testimonials. Judge Waldo M. York delivered the address of the evening upon the subject of "The Open Door," which as he made clear, means the door of opportunity for the young people who are well equipped for the work of the world. The discourse was filled with the spirit of hopefulness and enthusiasm. It gave no encouragement to the pessimist. He fortified his position by instances in great number of men of his acquaintance who beginning life with but few of the advantages of property or position, had carved their way to places of wealth and influence and at the same time had not sacrificed any honorable principles in their career. Rev. J. S. Pitman, of the high school board, also gave an excellent talk in connection with his delivery of diplomas, which was highly appreciated. The music was good and all the exercises of the evening were a fitting finale of a successful year.

SPORTING NOTES.

Those who were present at last Saturday's game of baseball saw a good, clean contest when Glendale City beat the Western Lithograph team by a score of 8 to 0. Hilliard, the Glendale pitcher, gave two hits and fanned twelve of the opposing team. On Monday (July 4th) there will be a game on the ball grounds, 5th and Glendale, at 10 o'clock between two picked teams, and at 3:30 in the afternoon will occur the game between Glendale City and the Wieland. Saturday's game will be between the home team and the Union Hardware and Metal Co. team, a combination which beat us once and which we have beaten twice, so that both teams are pretty sure to do their best. This will be one of the regular Interleague games in which Glendale now occupies third place, the only ones ahead of us being the Goldschmidts and the Echo Park Playground team, Glendale's points being 666 against 1000 for each of the others.

Manager Valentine has taken charge of the Echo Park Playgrounds for a short time, but will be in Glendale on the 4th and will be here permanently after two weeks.

Her eleven-year-old son Keith, who for the past two months has been suffering from a complicated case of typhoid pneumonia, reacted Los Angeles in such an acute state of suffering that five hours were required to convey him to this city in an ambulance. He is at present holding his own. The two girls are using with whooping cough and Mrs. Tatlow is much worn by her three months' arduous experiences. Her father, Mr. Isaac Senews of Burlington, N. J., came with the family. Mr. Senews has just passed the 80th milestone, hale, hearty and active. Dr. Marcus Newcomb of Burlington, N. PRESBYTERY ENTERTAINED.

The Presbytery of Los Angeles was very delightfully entertained last Tuesday by the churches of San Pedro and Wilmington. The little church of Wilmington celebrated its fortieth birthday, being the first Presbyterian church organized in this part of California.

In this church in 1873 was organized the Presbytery of Los Angeles and one of the first acts of the Presbytery was to consider the sending of a missionary to Los Angeles to establish permanently a work that had been attempted several times before.

After the morning business session, the ladies of St. Andrews church of San Pedro served a very bountiful and dainty luncheon.

Later the guests were taken in launches to the outer harbor and then to the old channel and the new, landing in the Consolidated Docks and thence by automobiles to the Wilmington church for the afternoon business session.

At five the guests were conveyed to the Wilmington hall for a reception and a banquet whose after dinner speeches dealt with the history of the Wilmington church.

Glendale and Tropic were represented by Elder F. C. Richardson of the Tropic church with his wife and daughter, and Pastors Shoemaker and Ward with their wives. Pastor Chase of Burbank was present with his daughter.

ADAMS-CONWAY.

A large party of friends assembled at the Sanitarium gymnasium on Tuesday evening, June 21st, to witness the marriage of Mr. Elbridge M. Adams of Edendale to Miss Sophia W. Conway of Porterville. The bride was one of the graduate nurses of the class of 1909, and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Griffin. The ceremony was performed by the father of the groom and his brother, W. M. Adams, served as best man.

As the wedding march from Lohengrin was being played, the bride came in with her matron of honor, preceded by her ushers, Mr. F. J. Wessels and Mr. John Hanson and by two dainty little flower girls, Misses Lois Dougherty and Jeanne Wessels, who scattered flowers as they walked up the aisle. The building was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the bridal couple standing under a large wedding bell of ferns and white sweet peas. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Adams received the congratulations of their friends. For the present they will reside in Edendale.

This is the second wedding lately of members of this class, Mr. Ellis C. Silsbee having been married on June 1st to Miss Nina Lawry of the Class of 1910, and they are now on their way to Africa, to take up missionary work in that field.

Word has been received from Mr. Frazee who with his family recently removed from Glendale to Hemet, that they are pleased with their new home. Before leaving Glendale Mr. and Mrs. Frazee were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Fryer of Kenneth Road and a farewell reception was held there in their honor, at which about fifty guests were present. Following this at the Children's Day exercises of the Baptist church, the friends of Mr. Frazee presented him with a beautiful picture as a token of their appreciation of his services as superintendent of the Sunday school.

CITY TRUSTEES

Routine Business—Additional Fire Hose to be Purchased—Fire Crackers to be Sold but Not Fired on July 4th

All members present. Routine business was taken up. The report of expert appointed to examine the books and accounts of city officials was read. The report is lengthy and goes considerably into detail, but aside from comparatively unimportant corrections made, with recommendations for some slight changes in the form of book-keeping, contains nothing of particular interest, except that it especially commends the condition of the accounts of the lighting plant department.

The police and sanitary commission made a report, recommending the appointment of J. W. Everett as special police officer at a salary of $37.50 per month, and the same was adopted; and the city attorney was instructed to prepare a resolution accordingly. There was considerable discussion of the question of the burning of refuse in the city limits, but no action was taken.

Consideration of the question of fire hose and reel took up considerable time. The clerk had previously been instructed to advertise for bids for the hose. A motion made by Mr. Coker was seconded by Mr. Anderson, to rescind this order and leave the whole matter to the supply committee, to make the purchase. The motion was lost by a vote of three to two, and advertising for bids will be proceeded with.

The street superintendent reported that it was impossible to make any report that would be of value on the probable cost of keeping parkways clear of weeds, but he would think that it would be something like six dollars a mile per month for both sides of the street. The Pacific Electric matter was referred to and it was stated that Mr. Baker (who was absent) had the matter in charge. A communication was received from property owners along Verdugo Road north of Third street, calling attention to the fact that there are no fire plugs in that neighborhood and requesting that the city put some in. The matter was referred to the fire and public safety committee.

A request was received from Geo. B. Mock asking for an extension of 90 days for the completion of his contract on Glendale avenue. The opinion was expressed by different members of the board that the work should not be delayed so long, as experience had proved that oil applied in cold weather does not give a good street. After considerable discussion an extension of 60 days was granted. A communication was received from Mr. Zerr asking permission to sell fireworks. This led to a lively discussion, a tendency being shown to grant the request to sell, but to enforce the ordinance prohibiting their being fired. As it finally passed, the permit was granted Mr. Zerr and Mr. Neesom to sell fireworks on July 4th only, and only to dispose of the stock they now have on hand.

The ordinance amending section 27 of the building ordinance was taken up, read the third time and passed.

ST. MARK'S GUILD.

A most enthusiastic meeting of the Guild of St. Mark's church was held last Thursday afternoon in the guild hall. After the regular business meeting the warden of the church asked to present the existing conditions, financially, of the church, and solicited the hearty co-operation of all to assist the officers in the discharge of their various duties. The president, Mrs. Johnson, suggested that a Cafeteria Supper be held in the Guild hall July 7th, and immediately plans were formed for this supper. Committees are now busily working for this supper, served July 7th, in the Guild hall, at 6 o'clock. The hostesses for the day were Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Kirby. Don't forget—July 7th.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Little Mildred Overton celebrated her fourth birthday June 16th, having a most delightful time. Parents and children engaged in the games, much to the pleasure of the little ones. The house was beautifully and artistically decorated. The refreshments, of cake and ice cream, were immensely enjoyed, each one having a souvenir basket of candy. Presents were numerous. Those invited were Francis, Myrtle, Beulah and Thelma Schock, of Brookfield, Mo.; Dorothy and Anna Brockman, Mary and Margaret Anderson, Horace and Virginia Overton, Horace and Willard Martin, Gordon Anderson, Raymond Anderson and Gordon Campbell.

VALLEY PICNIC.

The Valley Picnic under the auspices of the Old Settlers' association, will occur on Saturday the 17th of September, probably at Verdugo Park. Inquiries are being made in regard to it, hence this early announcement.

GLENDALE, CAL., JULY 1, 1910

THE NEWS acknowledges a pleasant but too brief call from Mr. Compton of the Coachella Submarine on Saturday last.

Ocean Park is having a row over the refusal of school trustees to appoint certain teachers, so Tropico is not unique in its merry experience.

THE NEWS is indebted to Representative James McLachlan for a valuable wall map of the United States and a set of Congressional Records and Year Books.

The success of President Taft in bringing Congress around to looking at the Postal Savings bank bill from his point of view, indicates that he is not entirely unfamiliar with the power of the "big stick."

It is to be fervently hoped that Italy will get young Charlton to deal with according to law and that no mawkish sentimentality will prevent his getting the extreme penalty for his diabolical crime.

On Monday next Mr. James Jeffries, who two years ago declared that "No gentleman would fight a nigger," will endeavor to pulverize that husky black African, Jack Johnston, in the classic precincts of Reno, Nevada, where the divorcee comes from. We still wonder whether Mr. Jeffries is still a gentleman and Mr. Johnston yet a "nigger."

Our representatives in Congress who exerted themselves successfully in securing an appropriation of one million dollars to be expended at the discretion of the president for the purpose of protecting the Imperial valley from the erratic Colorado, deserve commendation. Those who seem to have done the work were Senator Frank A. Flint and Representative Smith.

The New York grand jury after a six months' investigation has reported in effect that there is but little foundation for the story of the "White Slave" traffic, which has been exploited to such an extent by the muck-rakers. This verdict will be a sad disappointment to the large number of people who like to believe that pretty nearly everything is wrong in the world.

The Glendale and Vicinity Improvement association deserves to be congratulated upon succeeding in such a remarkably short time in raising the necessary funds for a drinking fountain which is to be erected at 4th and Brand boulevard. To the ladies particularly who did such efficient work in the campaign for funds, we gladly pay tribute. The improvement association promises to be one of the chief factors in the upbuilding of our city and deserves the support of all our people.

A self-confessed burglar was turned loose on probation in Los Angeles the other day. Melvin Hager, who burglarized several stores in Glendale and Eagle Rock and who made a full confession, is also an applicant for this sort of leniency. The humanitarian side of the criminal question is being dangerously overworked—the general public still has a right to claim protection from the criminal element. If the jails are not properly conducted, then let the jails be reformed, but too many criminals are being turned loose by the courts, and it is time that common sense supersede sentimentality in the administration of our laws.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

There is a general tendency all over the country to do away with the more noisy and dangerous features of the celebration of July 4th which have caused probably in the 322 years of our independence, the loss of more lives than were sacrificed on the battlefields of the revolution.

It is to be hoped, however, that the other features of the old-fashioned celebration may be retained. The way should be celebrated and in such a manner as to call to the attention of the most careless citizen or of the alien who will in time take upon himself the responsibilities of citizenship. We have no sympathy with that high type of intellect which looks down upon the Fourth of July oration, the banners, the music, the marching men and the other things aside from the explosion of fireworks, which we are accustomed to associate with the day. The best of the orators, it is true, will utter platitudes; their speeches may be lacking in originality, the reading of the Declaration may fall upon dull ears, but it will not be the fault of the great instrument if the ears are dull or if the auditors fail to be thrilled ever so little by the recitation of the immortal lines. We have less sympathy still for that class of citizens whose minds are cast in such dyspeptic mold that for this one day in the year at least, they cannot rejoice and be thankful for the manifold blessings which we enjoy as a nation and as citizens of a country that is dedicated to freedom and comes nearer to that high ideal of which the founders of the republic dreamed than has any other government known of among men! It is not the day for the pessimist or the muck-raker, and if on no other day or occasion, then at least out of the fullness of the heart should spring the words that tell of our manifold blessings.

It is not a day for mourning—sack cloth and ashes have no place in its observance.

The youth of the land always have looked for the day with happy anticipation and it should be made to minister to their reasonable enjoyment. They need not be preached to in solemn vein, but an effort should be made in the observance of the day to arouse in them the high spirit of patriotism, to thrill them by holding up the example of the heroes who first made the day glorious, with a pride in all that their deeds imply. And over all always should float the banner of the republic suggestive in every graceful quivering fold as it floats in the summer air of the glorious history of the land it typifies.

"Flag of the free! Hearts hope and home,
By angel hands to valor given,
Thy stars have lit the welkin dome
And all thy hues were born in heaven."

GREATER GLENDALE.

This paper has consistently from the beginning advocated the enlargement of the corporate limits of Glendale and believes that the effort to increase the territory within the municipality should now be made. When the city was incorporated the whole matter was experimental and the originally proposed boundaries were drawn in to meet the objections of property owners who feared that the experiment of self-government would be a failure. The matter has now passed the experimental stage and it is not likely that the property owners who four years ago objected to being in the incorporation, would still maintain that position, for incorporated Glendale has been a splendid success. With every day that passes the contrast between conditions in the city and those existing in adjoining outside territory, become more noticeable. The city's streets are an object lesson of a successful experiment, now a demonstrated fact. The county has never been able to keep its extensive road system in good repair and there is no evidence visible which gives reason to hope that it ever will. The subdivisions outside the city are served by roads in many instances made only for the purpose of selling the property. Their condition up to the present is fairly good, but they are constantly deteriorating and will do so more rapidly in the future than in the past. If those sections were annexed to Los Angeles, they could get no help from that municipality except such as would be available in the way of establishing grades and providing the legal machinery by which property owners could improve the streets at their own expense. The absence of fire protection; in some places an insufficient water supply; excessive charges for electricity; these are all potent arguments for the consolidation of Glendale and adjacent territory in one municipality and there are more.

On the part of Glendale the principal reason for desiring a larger municipality is of course the desire for more assessable territory and a population sufficiently large to permit of raising the city to the fifth class. From a sentimental standpoint the people both within and without the city limits should favor consolidation for the reason that it will tend to harmonize all interests and sections and to build up a city here that will be second to none other in Southern California as possessing all of the attributes attaching to the ideal place for homes. We are glad that the improvement association has commenced at once the campaign of education which is the necessary preliminary to the actual balloting on the subject. With all who believe that one harmonious and progressive city is better than several imaginary subdivisions where more or less local jealousy exists, let the slogan from this time forward be, "For a Greater Glendale."

In the meantime THE NEWS will take hold of this matter and will be glad to give space to any arguments on the subject either for or against.

One front tooth was broken off near the gums, while another was driven almost the entire length up into the gum. The child was taken to a physician at the beach and later to a dentist. After working for a half hour the dentist decided the best thing to do would be to bring the little sufferer to Glendale and consult the family dentist and she was at once brought here. The tooth was extracted and set in its original place. At last reports the child was doing as well as could be expected.

Mrs. Jones, nervously: "Well, Mrs. Smith, here I am bothering you again. This time I want to borrow some butter, a few potatoes and some gasoline. I am ashamed to be borrowing every day from my neighbors, but I simply can't get my groceries delivered on time. It is now nearly six o'clock and my husband has been home nearly an hour. I am bothered this way every day and it gets worse. Instead of better, Oh, bother, such trials as these will worry my life out."
Mrs. Smith, calmly: "Yes, I can help you out. We ate dinner promptly at 5—my groceries were here by 2 and I always have dinner ready when my husband comes."
Mrs. Jones: "Do tell me where you trade."
Mrs. Smith: "At McGillis." However, I had the same trouble you are now having before they took off solicitors. Now they call me up by phone during the morning and I always get my groceries early."
Mrs. Jones: "I suppose my people are doing the best they can, but such poor service is disgusting, and I too, am going to begin with McGillis on the first of the month."

This is only a sample of the many conversations heard all over town.

Home Course In Domestic Science

XII.—Hints on Home Laundering.

By EDITH G. CHARLTON,
In Charge of Domestic Economy, Iowa
State College.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

TO many women the laundry is the least interesting part of the home, and often the weekly washing and ironing are the work most dreaded by the entire family. In fact, in many homes they prove to be the one insurmountable task, and because no other solution is found for the problem the washing is sent to the laundry or is done in any way and by any one so long as it is taken out of the house. Why the washing and ironing should prove such unpleasant work as to cause both mistress and maid to rebel against it has always been a mystery to me. I can explain it only by the natural supposition that neither knows how to do it well and that the possibilities for doing the work quickly, easily and thoroughly are few in most homes. We generally find that a properly equipped laundry is among the best things to be added to the house and that in the majority of cases a tub or two, perhaps a washing machine of possible merit and occasionally a wringer comprise the average washing outfit in private homes of moderate means. And, small as that equipment is, it can be made to give very satisfactory results if a little knowledge and intelligence are brought to the task. The trouble is most women do not like to wash because they have not been taught to do it properly and because they make extremely hard work of it. They appreciate to some degree fine fabrics and dainty clothing, but they do not, as a rule, appreciate these to the extent that makes them desirous of preserving materials and colors.

While it is difficult at any time and in almost any locality to obtain well trained helpers for housework, it is often an easier task to get a good cook or housemaid than it is to find a first class laundress. Because of this it is all the more necessary that the mistress of the house should be familiar with fabrics and how to cleanse them.

The Modern Laundry Equipment.
Wherever possible the laundry should be a separate apartment in even small houses. It may be located in the basement or adjoining the kitchen; but, wherever it is, the room should be well lighted and well ventilated and should have a good floor and hard finished walls. There should be no soft or porous material used in the laundry to absorb moisture. For a small home laundry the following list of furnishings will be found sufficient:

Three or four tubs, stationary if possible, made of soapstone, enamel or porcelain; a good washing machine, clothes wringer, clothes stick, clothes boiler, tin or copper; zinc or glass washboard, clothespins (kept in box or basket), water pail, clothes basket, scrubbing brush, large granite spoon, galvanized iron clothesline, skirt, sleeve and bosom boards for ironing, ironing blanket, mangle and several good irons of different weights. An electric or even a good gasoline iron is such a valuable labor saving device that its first cost should seldom be considered, because it very soon more than repays it. Besides this amount of furnishing a number of common substances for removing stains of various kinds should always be on hand. Among those most frequently needed may be mentioned borax, ammonia, salt, vinegar, alum, naphtha, muriatic and oxalic acid. These should be kept in a closed box and out of the reach of children, as some of them are poisonous. Wax, bluing, starch, French chalk and javelle water are also often needed in the laundry, and if a supply of them is kept on hand time and effort may be saved on washing day. A valuable addition to this equipment would be an electric or water motor with which to run the washing machine, wringer and mangle. With such an addition it is possible for one woman to finish a large washing with comparatively little outlay of strength.

Removing Ordinary Stains.
Washing is the mechanical cleansing of clothes to remove all impurities and dirt. To do this four simple, short rules should be kept in mind—viz:

Get out all the dirt.
Keep all articles a good color.
Use nothing to injure the material either mechanically or chemically.

Have some definite knowledge of different fabrics in order to treat each in the way least likely to injure or change its character.

Unsatisfactory results in laundry work can often be traced to carelessness in preparing the various articles to be washed. Too often articles of coarse and fine, white and colored, are put into the suds together without the slightest attention to such preliminary steps in the process as sorting, removing stains, temperature and soapiness of the water. After such indiscriminate preparation what wonder if fine muslins are soon torn or made yellow, if stains are made permanent and the entire washing takes on a dingy hue?

Before any article is sent to the wash it should be examined and all stains carefully removed. This requires care and some knowledge of chemicals and their action on fabrics and stains. All stains cannot be removed by the same substance or in the same way, and yet it is remarkable how many different kinds of stains may be removed by cold water alone. For this reason I recommend that all articles be soaked in cold water for fifteen minutes or longer before being put into the washing suds. The white pieces should, of course, be kept by themselves, and if there is any question about the possibility of any color a little salt and vinegar added to the cold water will help to set it. Alum added to the rinsing water will make the color still more permanent. The following are general directions for removing stains of various kinds:

Tea and Coffee.—Spread the stained part over a bowl and pour boiling water over it from a height.

Chocolate and Cocoa.—Wash first in cold water, then rinse and pour boiling water through it.

Fruit.—Many fruit stains may be softened and dissolved by alcohol. If heated the alcohol will be more effective. For peach stain it may be necessary to use diluted muriatic acid or sulphur fumes. Boiling water will remove fresh stains of small fruits.

Grass.—Alcohol will dissolve the green coloring matter. Washing with naphtha soap and warm water or spreading on a paste made of soap and baking soda will also remove grass stains.

Grease or Oil.—Soak first in cold water, then wash with cold water and soap, then dry and if necessary use other agents. Chloroform or ether will remove grease from fabrics which cannot be washed.

Wine.—Put a thick layer of salt over the stain from red wine while fresh, then pour boiling water over it. If a yellow wine wash first with cold water, then with soap and water.

Ink.—If stain is on a white garment put to soak for several days in milk, changing frequently. Red ink poured over the black will remove the black stain. The red may be washed out in cold water and ammonia, then boiled. Equal parts of peroxide of hydrogen and ammonia may remove fresh stains. Oxalic acid will remove old ink stains from white garments. Salt and cold water may be used in fresh stains on delicate colors.

Iron Rust.—If fresh, lemon juice, salt and strong sunlight may remove stain, but generally it is better to use muriatic acid at once. Spread the stain over a bowl containing a fairly strong solution of borax and water or soda and water. Drop muriatic acid on the stain a little at a time until it darkens, then rinse thoroughly in the borax and water.

Mildew.—This is a mold growing on the fiber of the cloth. If fresh it may be removed by wetting in strong soap-suds or covering with a mixture of chalk and salt and bleaching in strong sunlight for several hours. Old mildew stains can rarely be removed without injuring the fabric.

Milk or Cream.—Wash out with cold water and later use soap and cold water.

Paint or Tar.—If fresh and washable use soap and water or rinse in turpentine, then wash. If not washable use gasoline. If dry soften with lard or oil, then treat as for fresh paint.

Perspiration.—Use cold water and soap and put the garment in the sun for several hours. The perspiration under the arms is different from that of the rest of the body and requires diluted muriatic acid to neutralize it.

Sugar or Gum.—Dissolve with warm water if washable, with alcohol if not washable.

Blood.—Soak in cold water, then rub out in fresh tepid water. If very dry soak and wash out or use peroxide of hydrogen or javelle water.

A word of caution is necessary when using acids to remove stains. These should not be used on colored fabrics, and after using on any white article always rinse thoroughly in borax and water or ammonia and water and afterward in clear water. Javelle water is an excellent bleaching agent which will often remove old stains. It is easily made and may be kept indefinitely in glass bottles in a cool, dark place.

Javelle Water.—Dissolve one pound of sal soda in two quarts of boiling water, then add one-fourth of a pound of chloride of lime. Stir with wooden stick until lumps are broken, then let stand several hours to settle. Pour off clear liquid and bottle for use. For bleaching purposes use one-half to one cupful to one pail of water. Always rinse thoroughly in ammonia water. To remove stains brush over with javelle water full strength, then rinse quickly in ammonia water.

Some practical suggestions for washing silks, woolsens and laces, starching, etc., will be given in a later article.

Why the Vases Were Valuable.

There's a china expert in one of the large department stores here who has an amusing little trade of his own on the side. It is nothing more or less than deciding the value of rare china or glassware broken by careless servants or packing houses.

"It requires a lot of diplomacy, too," he said, with a laugh. "Not so very long ago I was called in to arbitrate between an irate householder and one of the big moving firms. She said with sobs that the movers had broken a pair of vases which she valued at $100. The movers, although willing to make restitution, considered the sum exorbitant. Well, I looked at the pieces and found the value about $25. I told the woman so quietly. 'I know that,' she sobbed, 'but they belonged to my mother-in-law, and my husband will think I made the men do it purposely unless I get a lot for them.'

"And it was not until the men had proufessed to prove they had done it accidentally that the lady was content to accept the $25."—Philadelphia Times.

Too Much For Her.

"The newest laws of hygiene," said a medical man, "can't be inculcated save among those who thoroughly understand them. Take the case of Dash.

"Dash, a rich country scientist, decided to encourage cremation among the villagers. So when the old ash man died, Dash urged his widow to have the corpse cremated.

"No, sir," said the old woman, "I'll not cremate him. I'll put him under the sod."

"But the cremation won't cost you a cent," said Dash. "I'll pay all the expenses if you'll let me have him cremated."

"Well, I agree," said the old woman in a hesitating voice. "I'm too poor not to agree, sir." Then she gave Dash a puzzled look, half of pity, half of contempt.

"But why do you do it, sir?" she said. "Is it a hobby like golf or stamp collecting?"—Washington Star.

The Author's Grievance.

The magazine editor looked up.

"I want to protest, sir," said the caller, "against the way in which one of your reckless proofreaders mangled my copy. See here. The judge in the story looks down at the detective. 'Are you Pendleton King?' he asks, and the detective, removing his beard, replies, 'I am.' Now, just see what your proofreader made him say."

The editor glanced at the line and read it aloud:

"The detective, removing his beard, replies, 'I am.'"

The unhappy author groaned.

"Where does that leave the readers?" he demanded.

The editor slowly smiled.

"At 1 a. m. they are naturally left in the dark," he replied. "Take an extra chapter and get them out of it."

The author suddenly laughed.

"Happy thought!" he cried. "I will."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Why They Smiled.

It was the Sabbath day, and the elder was shaving himself prior to church time when he made a slight cut with the razor on the extreme end of his nose. Calling his wife, he asked her if she had any court plaster.

"You will find some in my sewing basket," she said.

The elder soon had the cut covered. At church in assisting with the collection he noticed every one smile as he passed the plate. Very much annoyed, he asked one of his assistants if there was anything wrong with his appearance.

"I should say there was," answered the assistant. "What is that upon your nose?"

"Court plaster."

"No," said his friend; "it is the label from a reel of cotton. It says, 'Warranted 200 yards.'"—Pearson's.

Circus in Paris Streets.

Writing of street life in Paris, Wilhelm Feldmann says in the Welt Spiegle that the unique features are the gymnastic and acrobatic performances which one sees there. Wherever traffic will permit one may expect to see the street acrobats, men, women and children, spread their carpet, erect their apparatus and, to the accompaniment of a few instruments, sometimes only a drum, give their performances. Feats of strength, balancing and pyramid building are performed, and then one of the youngsters in tight clothes collects the coppers from the crowd which usually congregates.

This done, the performers throw long cloaks over their tight and move on with their wagon to the next halting place.

Maidens Sold by Auction.

A singular custom obtains to this day in some of the towns on the lower Rhine—namely, that of "selling" maidens at public auction. For nearly four centuries on Easter Monday—auction day—the town crier or clerk of St. Goar has called all the young people together and to the highest bidder sold the privilege of dancing with the chosen girl and her only during the entire year. The fees are put into the public poor box.

A Fire Alarm.

First Boy—Where yer goin' in such a rush? Second Boy—(od the run)—Fire alarm! First Boy—Where? Second Boy—Boss said he'd fire me if I wasn't back from his errand in ten minutes.—Boston Transcript.

His Objection.

Artist—Why do you object to this miniature? Nurich—It looks like me. I'll admit, but it's too stinky. Better make one life size.—Lippincott's.

Moving Books.

Many persons complain that their books suffer in transit. The head of a moving company was interviewed on this subject, and he said: "After several years' experimenting with different things for the best conveyance of books I have found that the use of small boxes is by far the most advisable; the smaller the better. These boxes are easily secured for a few cents from your grocer. For storage purposes, where the matter is left to us, we move books in long, narrow boxes fitted with handles made especially for this purpose, but this is not necessary, of course, for the ordinary moving. Barrels simply ruin books, and large boxes filled with heavy volumes have caused more than one strike among our men. They are the clumsiest of all things to handle, as well as the heaviest."

Another mode of moving books is to tie them up in small bundles with stout wrapping paper and heavy twine, leaving enough of the twine to make a loop handle for lifting.—New Idea Woman's Magazine.

The Drummer's Sermon.

"Certainly I will make a few remarks," says the cigar salesman who, because of his solemn garb, has been mistaken for a man of the cloth. Ascending the platform, he says: "Men are much like cigars. Often you cannot tell by the wrapper what the filler is. Sometimes a good old story is more popular than an imported celebrity. Some men are all right in the showcase on display, but are great disappointments when you get them home. No matter how fine a man is, eventually he meets his match. A two-for often puts on as many airs as a fifty-center. Some men never get to the front at all except during campaigns. Some are very fancy outside and are selected for presents. Others have a rough exterior, but spread cheer and comfort about them because of what is inside. But all men, as all cigars, good or bad, two-fers, stogies or rich or poor, come to ashes at the last."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Origin of Commerce.

Commerce—the international traffic in goods as distinct from domestic trade—was undoubtedly originated by the wonderful little people known in history as the Phoenicians. The "Yankees of antiquity," the Phoenicians, traded with various peoples long before the other nations had crossed their respective frontiers. All along the shores of the Mediterranean and up the coast of the Atlantic as far north as the British Isles their ships were to be found, leaving their manufactures and wonderful dyes and bringing back to Tyre tin, wool and such other articles as paid them to deal in. Creating the merchant marine so long ago that history gives us no account of it, the Phoenicians and their colonies, the Carthaginians, held it until it passed on to Greece and Rome and later, along to the republics of modern Italy.—New York American.

A Scotch Anti-golf Law.

Scotland, as everybody knows, is the land where golf originated and the land where it most flourishes. But if the law were strictly enforced north of the Tweed it would go hard with the players of the royal game in "bonnie Scotland." Golf players there may not know it, but they are liable to a sentence of death for their indulgence in their favorite sport. Technically this is literally a fact. In ancient times, when Scotland always had work for her soldiers to do, all young men were required to perfect themselves in archery. They preferred to play golf, and so serious a rival did the game become that it was for a time suppressed and made a capital offense. That curious law never has been repealed and may still be found on the statute book. There seems to be no record, however, of its ever having been enforced.

A Japanese Custom.

On the anniversary of a Japanese boy's birthday his parents present him with a huge paper fish, made of a gayly patterned bag, with a hoop of proper dimensions forming the mouth. A string is tied to the hoop, and the fish is hoisted to a pole on the roof of the house. Then the wind rushing through causes the fish to swell out to the proper size and shape and gives it the appearance of swimming in the air. A Japanese boy carefully preserves every fish thus given to him. One can tell by the number of them that swim from the same pole how many birthdays the little fellow has had.

Cause For Rejoicing.

"Here's, natch, the disgruntled actor. 'I don't want this part. If I play it I'll have to die in the first act.'"

"Well, replied the manager, 'what are you looking about? You die a natural death, don't you? If you got a chance to appear in the second act you'd get killed.'"

—Chicago Record-Herald.

Bummy Robinson.—Yes, mum; once for a whole year I turned me back on likker. Kind Lady.—Ah, my noble man, what were you doing at the time? Bummy Robinson.—Driving a brewer's gray, mum.—London Tit-Bits.

When Lincoln Sat For His Bust.

When Vinnie Ream, the sculptor, was a mere child still and her experience in modeling consisted of a few busts and medallions she timidly asked President Lincoln to permit her to model his bust. "I don't know why any one should want the picture or statue of so homely a man," he answered and at first declined to sit. But when Senator Nesmith told him that the western girl, "who was poor, but talented," would be disappointed if unable to secure this favor he turned quickly and said: "She is poor, is she? Well, that is nothing against her, and I will sit for the model."

During the sittings the great man would watch with much interest the hands of the girl sculptor at her work; but, speaking of him later, she said: "For the most part he was sad and silent, weighed upon by the stress of a nation in peril and his own recent personal loss of a beloved son. Ah, those were sad days at the White House! One day the president's eyes were full of tears as he turned from gazing out of the window, and he said to me, 'I am thinking of Willie.'"—Designer.

Curious Training Methods.

Every baseball player seems to have his own system, and some of the methods used are laughable, and few are of any practicable value. One young catcher who joined a National league club a few years ago brought five gallons of iron, beef and wine in jugs in his trunk to make him strong. Cannon balls that weigh twenty-five pounds are used to roll over the abdomen. Iron rolling pins, special bandages, a thousand kinds of rubbing oils and lotions, ranging from patent medicines to horse liniments and oil made by boiling down fishing worms, vibrators of all sizes and shapes, odd arm bakers to be superheated with electricity and rubber bands are employed. Hotel rooms are turned into gymnasiums, and one of the funniest sights of a year is to sit in a card game with half a dozen players swathed like puffy mummies in blankets, sweaters and flannels until they look as if they were starting on an arctic journey.—American Magazine.

Wellington's Coolness.

The Duke of Wellington was one day sitting at his library table when the door opened and without any announcement in stalked a figure of singularly ill omen.

"Who are you?" asked the duke in his short and dry manner, looking up without the slightest change of countenance upon the intruder.

"I am Apollyon. I am sent here to kill you."

"Kill me? Very odd."

"I am Apollyon and must put you to death."

"Bliged to do it today?"

"I am not told the day or the hour, but I must do my mission."

"Very inconvenient; very busy; great many letters to write. Call again or write me word. I'll be ready for you."

The duke then went on with his correspondence. The maniac, appalled probably by the stern, immovable old gentleman, backed out of the room and in half an hour was in an asylum.

A Legend of February.

Here is the pretty legend which tells why February has only twenty-eight or twenty-nine days. Long ago, they say, February was a gambler, and he was so unlucky that he soon lost all his money. Like other gamblers, he tried to recover it, and he said to his companions that if they would lend him some money he would give them as security one of his days. January and March, who were naturally associated with him more often than any of the other months, accepted his offer, and as poor February soon lost the money which he had borrowed each of them acquired one of his days. That is why January and March have each thirty-one days and February has only twenty-eight in ordinary and twenty-nine in leap years.

A Faithful Servant.

Cariyle told once of a lawsuit pending in Scotland affecting the succession to a great estate of which he had known something. The case depended on a family secret known only to one old servant, who refused to reveal it. A kirk minister was sent to tell her she must speak on peril of her soul. "Peril of my soul!" she said. "And would ye put the honor of an auld Scottish family in competition with the soul of a poor creature like me?"

When Women Rule the Wave.

"Captain, I have to report that the ship is sinking rapidly."

"I wish to goodness, Gertie, you wouldn't bother me so often. However, you may cut her stays, which will probably relieve her, and have the stewardess serve tea at once in the plank room."—Life.

Platt's Response.

Thomas C. Platt was asked once upon a time whom he considered the greatest Republican politician of his day and generation.

"I have often wished," was Platt's response, "that I had been Quay's office boy for six months or more."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Cash and Credit.

"Father, what is meant by bankruptcy?"

"Bankruptcy is when you put your money in your hip pocket and let your creditors take your coat."—Fliegende Blätter.

No Barrier.

Miss Playne.—You can't marry Jack because I'm engaged to him. Miss Faire.—What's that got to do with it?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Getting Into Moral Debt.

Philip D. Armour, millionaire and philanthropist, continually warned young men against getting into debt. He loved free men and despised slaves. When asked if he admired a certain brilliant orator he said: "He may have a superb voice and fine presence, but can't you hear the rattle of his chain? That man is not free. He is under moral obligations that demoralize him. He is not speaking the deepest thing in his soul, and I haven't time to hear any slave talk. I want a man to be just as free as I am."

On another occasion he said: "Don't get into debt—I mean moral debt. It is bad enough to get into debt financially. There goes a young man who is mortgaged. That young man is legging it along with a debt, and it will take twice as much power to get him along as the man without a debt. There are other debts and obligations that are embarrassing in their entanglements. Don't get into debt morally, my boy; don't get into debt so that you may not exercise your freedom to its limits."

The Code of Slang.

It is rather a clever notion in a recent story to make two Americans communicate with each other by means of slang in a Central American republic at a time when all telegrams are carefully inspected. If they used Spanish, that, of course, would be immediately understood. If they used English the officials would find some one to translate it. As they had no cipher code prepared in advance, they could not resort to it. Consequently the first American telegraphs to the other American in "the great and potent code of slang." Here is a telegram which slipped through the fingers of the curious Central American officials:

"His nibs skedaddled yesterday per jack rabbit line with all the coin in the kitty and the bundle of muslin he's spoony about. The boodle is six figures short. Our crowd in good shape, but we need the spondulics. You collar it. The main guy and the dry goods are headed for the briny. You know what to do. Bob."—Bookman.

The Voracious Cormorant.

How a cormorant dives for sea trout and gets them is told by a writer: "I had the cormorant under observation only for the space of four or five minutes, and during that short period it had captured four sea trout, all of considerable size. After being under water for a few seconds the bird would reappear with a sea trout wriggling in its bill. But in spite of the victim's desperate efforts to escape it was deftly swallowed, and after a few gulps the cormorant would resume its fishing operations. One of the sea trout gave it considerable trouble, however, for the fish struggled violently for some moments, but was deftly placed so that its head pointed down its captor's throat, and thus its own struggles assisted the bird to swallow it. After a time the cormorant raised itself in the water, flapping its wings vigorously, as though to help it pack away its heavy repast, and then rose heavily and winged its way upstream."

Simple Transaction.

"I like de 'pearance o' dat turkey mighty well," said Mr. Johnson after a long and wistful study of the bird. The dusky marketman seemed strangely deaf.

"How could I—What arrangements could a pussion make dat wanted to buy dat turkey?" Mr. Johnson asked after a pause.

"Easy terms 'nough," said the marketman briskly. "You get him by means o' a note o' hand."

"A note o' hand," repeated Mr. Johnson, brightening up at once. "Do you mean I writes it out and pays some time when?"—But his hope in this glorious prospect was rudely shattered by the marketman.

"A note o' hand means in dis case," he said, with disheartening clearness, "dat you hands me a two dollar note. Mr. Johnson, and I hands you de turkey in response to dat note."

All Is Not Lion That Roars.

A negro was arrested for stealing coal and employed a lawyer of loud oratorical voice to defend him in a justice court.

"That lawyer could roar like a lion," the negro said. "I thought he was going to talk that judge off the bench and that jury out of the box. I got one continuance and hurried up to burn all that coal and hide the evidence. Then came the day of my trial. That roarin' lawyer went up and whispered to the judge. Then he came back and whispered to me: 'You better send that coal back or you'll go to jail.'"

Russ That Worked.

Roundsman.—How did you keep all of those girls from rushing out of the moving picture show when the lights went out? Policeman.—It was dead easy. When they started to rush I said: 'That's right! Old ladies first!' And the way they held back was a caution.—Chicago News.

Got on His Nerves.

Frugal North Briton (in his first experience of a taxi)—Here, mon, stop! I hae a weak heart. I canna stand that hang't wee machine o' yours markin' up thae tuppences.—London Punch.

The Others.

"I have kings among my ancestors," said the boastful visitor. "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne, "and also knaves and two spots."—Washington Star.

Base gains are the same as losses.—Hesiod.

THE JUNIORS OF THE HIGH SCHOOL ENTERTAIN SENIORS. A "Classy Affair."

The party given by the Juniors of the Glendale high school to the Seniors at the clubhouse last Saturday evening was one of the most brilliant affairs given here for a long time, and was enjoyed by sixty-five members of the two classes.

The various rooms were very prettily decorated by a few of the students. The reception room was decorated in red and silver gray—the Juniors' colors, while the hall was adorned with yellow and white—the Seniors' colors.

The banquet room was gorgeously arranged with blossoms. In different portions were cluster bouquets of mammoth yellow and white poppies and Shasta daisies. At each place a yellow and a white rose were placed, and also a novel banner of white material bearing the figures "1910," printed in yellow. At one end of the banquet room a large Senior banner was stretched against the wall, while the Junior banner occupied the opposite end.

The table was set in regular banquet style and nothing more complete and really "classy" could be imagined. Those in charge had more than "spread" themselves, and nothing was omitted which would make for the success of the event.

Miss Evelyn Ryan was toastmaster for the evening, and the toasts which were called for and responded to were as follows: "Pride of the School," Owen Emery; "Hope of the School," Granville McClure; "Past," Miss Lillian Elias; "Future," Miss Emma Pulliam. A short address was given by Prof. Harry Howe, and later a large banner was presented to Owen Rhodes, valedictorian of the class.

The affair was under the management of an executive board composed of the following: Miss Anna Woodbury, Miss Myrtle Pulliam and Miss Emily Elias and James Wells. This board was ably assisted in the decorating by Misses Pearl Goode, Lita McCoy, Emma Pulliam, Ruth Pershing, Messrs. Owen Emery and Harry Beardsley. The only members of the faculty present were Miss Ethel Hume Flood, Junior class teacher, and Harry L. Howe, instructor of the Senior class.

The ladies who assisted in waiting on the table, and incidentally chaperoned the party, were Mrs. E. W. Emery, Mrs. Harry L. Howe, Mrs. A. D. McCoy, Mrs. E. B. Elias, Mrs. T. D. Ogle, Mrs. C. O. Pulliam.

Miss Lucile Parker directed the serving of punch during the evening.

NOTABLE RECEPTION.

Retiring President Tuesday Afternoon Club Honored.

The Tuesday Afternoon club and about fifty guests from Glendale and Los Angeles were entertained on Tuesday, June 28th, by the new president of the club, Mrs. Mary H. Gridley, at her beautiful new home at the corner of Brand boulevard and Milford street.

Mrs. Gridley has been a prominent club worker in New York City and Chicago and the Tuesday Afternoon club is anticipating a very prosperous year under her guidance. Mrs. Gridley has furnished her new home throughout with elegant Oriental rugs and Colonial furniture from her home in New York City and all was opened for the comfort and enjoyment of her guests.

The guests were met in the reception hall by Mrs. Gridley, Mrs. Dr. Hunt, Mrs. J. H. Wells and Mrs. E. C. Robertson. Down the receiving line in the drawing room were the retiring president, Mrs. R. A. Blackburn, in whose honor the reception was given, and the past presidents, Mrs. E. W. Pack, Mrs. Martha W. Morris and Mrs. F. G. Taylor. These four ladies represented seven years of club life as Mrs. Blackburn, Mrs. Pack and Mrs. Taylor, who was the first president of the club, each served two terms. The regular order of business was suspended, the only formality being the presentation of the key to Mrs. Gridley by Mrs. Blackburn.

The afternoon was given over to sociability. Punch was served on the north porch by the Misses Margaret Dick and Elsie Church and delicious refreshments were served in the dining room.

In the music room Mr. Scott of Chicago, one of the proprietors of the Locomo Piano Co., rendered beautiful selections on the Autopiano.

Magnificent hydrangeas, the gift of Dr. Hunt and Mr. Frank, blended with the mahogany and rose of the dining room and fine specimens of cochet roses from Mrs. V. Price Brown adorned the music and drawing rooms.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Russell J. Waters, president of the State Federation; Mrs. Allen Aldrich, Mrs. Theodore Garrison Davis, Mrs. Fletcher Howard, Mrs. L. S. Ramase, Mrs. and Miss Pepper, Mrs. Harry Walter Keller, Mrs. John A. Pirtel, Miss Pirtel of Los Angeles, Mrs. C. A. Barker, president of the Tropic Thursday Club, Mrs. Wash Hunt, Miss Myra M. Bartlett, Pomona; Mrs. S. Frances Maggs, Long Beach; Miss Cook, Michigan, and Mrs. Chas. E. Goodin, Salt Lake City.

The club has received the following invitation:

Los Angeles, June 22, 1910. Tuesday Afternoon Club, Glendale, California.

Ladies: The members of "The King's Daughters Day Nursery Circle" request the pleasure of your company at their annual picnic to be held July seventh at the Nursery Cottage, Manhattan Beach. Take the Del Rey and Redondo car and get off at First street, Manhattan. Basket lunch.

Sincerely yours, NETTIE JAY YAW, Chairman Fresh-air Committee.

GREETINGS: To the Tuesday Afternoon Club from its oldest member.

I am resting here in Avalon. Fair valley by the sea. Sometimes I feel surcease of pain. Then hope comes back to me.

But oft my thoughts go far astray, Beyond this seagirt land. To dear ones of the Tuesday Club, Would I might clasp each hand.

The kindly thoughtful messages So often sent to me, Makes glad my heart to feel I'll not forgotten be.

Goodby, dear friends, I prophesy Success for next year's work. For gifted minds and willing hands Will never duty shirk.

Lovingly, ELLEN BROWN-NEWMOMB.

GLENDAL AND VICINITY IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

There was a good attendance at the regular meeting of this association last Friday evening, about 100 persons being present. The program as announced in last week's issue, with the exception of one musical number, was carried out. Mr. E. W. Bannister of the city engineer's office in Los Angeles gave an interesting talk on the water question, particularly in regard to the Owens river project. Mr. Julius Kranz, accompanied by Mrs. Gibson, rendered one of his always enjoyable violin selections. The fountain committee, J. W. Usilton, chairman, made its report, showing the sum of $123.00, actually collected of the amount subscribed, which is sufficient to warrant going ahead at once with the work of erecting the fountain, which is to cost $175.00, and will be placed at Fourth and Brand boulevard. The membership of this committee, which has done such excellent work in such a short time, is as follows: J. W. Usilton, W. A. Anderson, C. H. Allen, H. L. Howe, E. H. Kirker, J. R. Bright and Mesdames Eademiller, Usilton, Kinney and Bennett. The subscription papers had only been in circulation a week.

Various matters of general interest were discussed, the most important one being the question of consolidation of this community into a Greater Glendale. It was decided to begin a vigorous campaign of education at once with this object in view. For this purpose it was decided to hold a number of meetings for the discussion of the subject at different places in the territory affected, the first to be held at G. A. R. Hall, Tropic, on the evening of Thursday, July 14th. Others in the Vineyard tract and elsewhere to follow. It was decided to hold the regular meetings of the association the evening of the last Thursday of every month instead of on Friday as heretofore.

KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH HOME

IT IS WONDERFUL HOW MUCH SATISFACTION CAN BE OBTAINED FROM A TALK OVER THE BELL TELEPHONE

A letter carries words, but the Bell Service has been brought up to such a point of perfection that the modulations of the voice are clearly heard.

The cheery tones show that the talker is well and in good spirits. The call may come from a suburban village or a distant city, but within the limits of the carrying power of the voice the Bell Service carries the tone as well. You get a personal interview with a friend hundreds of miles away.

who participated in the late Kirmess. But the special and particular occasion that brought the young folks together on that date was the birthday of George Mitchell, which was fittingly emphasized by gifts and otherwise so as to encourage the young man in having many more of them. The guests were met at the terminus of the Pacific Electric by a commodious hay wagon and conveyed to the hospitable home on the foothills. There were about twenty in the party, and it goes without saying that time during the evening had no chance to lag. There was music and games. Prizes at which were won as follows: First and second ladies, Misses Eleanor and May Richards; first and second gentlemen, Monroe Walton and Clyde Wallace.

In the gum grove near by tables were arranged, lighted with red candles and well laden with the things that tempt the appetite, while the glow of lanterns added to the cheer of the occasion. In a booth in the grove, a witch, as genuine as any that ever roamed the heath, told fortunes of marvelous variety. After enjoying the evening to the fullest extent, the young people at a late hour embarked again on the hay wagon and were safely delivered to their homes.

In front of the Richardson subdivision the San Fernando road has been blocked and those traveling along that thoroughfare are compelled to travel east as far as the boulevard, thence along the boulevard to the road. This has been necessitated by improvement work which is being done in the region of this tract.

There is being a revival of agitation on the matter of opening Brand boulevard between Tropic and Cypress avenues. This time it is proposed to open only the west side of the thoroughfare, and at this time the promoters are trying to learn how much money will be subscribed, with the hope of bringing immediate action.

MR. B. S. WEST PASSES AWAY.

At 6:45 o'clock on the evening of June 21st, B. S. West, who for the past eighteen years has been a resident of this place, died at his home on Central avenue. For several years previous to his death, Mr. West had been ill, but not until the last few weeks was he unable to wait on himself, and when the end came it was not entirely unexpected, although naturally unwelcome.

Mr. West was born in Oneida county, New York, in 1829, and at the time of his death was nearing his 81st birthday. He was married 56 years ago and his wife survives him. When Mr. West was 17 years old his father died leaving three children to be educated by him. For several years to send these boys to school he carried mail between Burlington and Chicago, and was afterward the builder of a large bridge over which the Burlington and Chicago railroad now runs. He was the founder of Log City, Ill., after ward renamed Galesburg, and after this city had grown quite large he moved several miles away and founded Oneida, which place is still known by that name.

Mr. West leaves a widow and five children, Fred H. West of Galesburg, Ill., Mrs. Henry J. Kapus of Elgin, Ill., Mrs. Andrew Stevenson, Mrs. John Hobbs and Mrs. J. A. Logan, the last three named of this place.

The funeral services were held at the house at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and were presided over by Rev. Henderson C. Shoemaker, pastor of the Tropic Presbyterian church. Interment was made in Forest Lawn cemetery. J. A. Logan, John Hobbs, Andrew Stevenson and Dwight Stevenson, all relatives of the deceased, were pallbearers.
